It may seem scarcely credible, but it is true, that the Essay had been in print rather more than ten years before Chatterton was born. As it stands in Dodsleys Annual Register, it is (with some verbal alterations, the insertion of one short paragraph, and the omission of another) a Number of a periodical paper entitled Common Sense, published Feby. 6th 1742 and reprinted in the Gentlemans Magazine for that month (p. 78. ) under the Title Caligulas Horse a good Minister. The verbal alterations are not worth notice; but the insertion, and the omission deserve attention. In Dodsley the first paragraph stands thus;--When I read over our own history, as well as that of other nations, I feel a kind of reverence rise in my soul for...
